

Lonny Koons is 😊 feeling grateful in Carthage, New York.

1h · 🌐

Effective March 31st, 2022, I am suspending my campaign to primary Elise Stefanik for the Republican nomination for New York's 21st Congressional District's Congressional race. I am doing this mainly because I cannot sustain a political campaign on my own. I had stayed afloat by pulling out half of my 401K and that is not enough. Also, it has come to my attention that I have been fraudulently filling in information on my petition sheets; I was unaware that by me filling in date and city cells as well as printing names of the signees after the fact that I was committing a fraudulent act. I had obtained greater than the number of signatures required but in order to have the paperwork filled out properly; I do not have the time. I have not determined if I will seek a future political run but will make that decision in the following weeks.

To all who offered support to my campaign and the solutions I was building; thank you and I am sorry I have let you all down. To all the candidates remaining in the election; good luck and please, put the people first. I am hopeful that our district, as well as the others across this country will begin to make the turn to representing the people over their Parties.